1 Project

The project was unable to completed successfully. The BoundedBuffer class is complete. There are structures for worker and patient thread arguments. The patient and worker threads were generated, but were unsuccessful in receiving useful data. Data was received from the server using these, but it was incomplete and not usable. The histogram function is called, but does not present useful data due to the unknown errors in the client that prevent meaningful data transfer. All of the dynamically allocated objects are deleted at the end of the program.
